Information About Our 2011 Scholarships

The American Institute of Wine & Food (AIWF) is a non-profit educational organization established in 1981 by the late Robert Mondavi, the late Julia Child and others to promote a forum for the study and enjoyment of gastronomy. The AIWF is dedicated to promoting health and well-being through the enjoyment of good food and drink and the fellowship that comes when people dine together around the table.

We are the San Diego Chapter of AIWF, a national organization. We award scholarships for the pursuit of culinary arts and enology/viticulture in full or part-time accredited continuing education programs. The scholarships typically range from $1,000 to $5,000 and the funds do not need to be repaid. All schools must be accredited, and offer continuous relevant hands-on, in-person experience. As the money for the scholarships is raised by the San Diego Chapter, they are only awarded to people who are connected to San Diego by school, work, or recent involvement in food or wine in the area. The scholarship money may be used for study within or outside of San Diego County.

Applications will be accepted until Friday, September 23, 2011. Scholarship winners will be recognized at a luncheon on or about November 20, 2011. The funds will be sent to the schools in or about February, 2012.

The scholarship award is not transferable without the written permission of the Scholarship Committee, and permission may be denied at the discretion of the Committee.

The scholarship funds will be sent directly to the school the successful applicant will be attending. All applicants are responsible for supplying their contact information at the time they submit the application, and again, after they start school, including addresses, home and cell phone numbers and email addresses.

Successful applicants are also required to supply the name, title, and mailing address of the person at the school to whom a check will be sent.

The San Diego Chapter expects feedback from scholarship winners about their achievements, experiences and future goals before graduation, and again, six months after the end of your studies.

This application must be completely filled out, along with the statement, resume, and letters of recommendation in order to be considered.
